Manager of Communications and Campaigns, Global Energy Institute (GEI),
U.S. Chamber of Commerce

Lindsay Rosen is the manager of communications and campaigns at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Global Energy Institute (GEI). Rosen leads the strategic development and execution of GEI's digital media campaigns, grassroots advocacy efforts, and engagement with the Chamber's Federation of 2,000 state and local chambers. In addition, she oversees GEI's social media, blogs, web presence, and member communications and publications.

Before joining the Chamber, Rosen worked on the digital strategy team at DDC Public Affairs. As the digital liaison to various client teams in the energy and transportation sectors, she strategized and executed multichannel awareness and advocacy campaigns and led social media monitoring and rapid response efforts.

Originally from Massachusetts, Rosen graduated from Elon University in North Carolina with a dual degree in strategic communications and political science. She resides in D.C. and serves as the communications and social media coordinator for the district's Elon alumni chapter.

The mission of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's Global Energy Institute is to unify policymakers, regulators, business leaders, and the American public behind a common sense energy strategy to help keep America secure, prosperous, and clean. Through policy development, education, and advocacy, the Institute is building support for meaningful action at the local, state, national, and international levels.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce is the world's largest business organization representing companies of all sizes across every sector of the economy. Our members range from the small businesses and local chambers of commerce that line the Main Streets of America to leading industry associations and large corporations.

They all share one thing: They count on the U.S. Chamber to be their voice in Washington, across the country, and around the world. For more than 100 years, we have advocated for pro-business policies that help businesses create jobs and grow our economy.
